CANSIGLIO FOREST

A source of wood for the Venetian Empire

Skirting the Santa Croce lake you go through Spert and Tambre, passing by the famous house in the shape of a book, then on to the Cansiglio Forest. Over the centuries the Forest has always been in the news with its millions of trees and thousands of deer. It was a colony of the Venetian Republic, who used it to provide timber for the construction of its fleet, and was inhabited by the Longobard Cimbra population, the ancestors of whom still reside there. The itinerary ends with the unique Caglieron caves. Many inns and restaurants. Find out more on our website

THE FIRST WORLD WAR

A military road, Brent de l'Art Canyon and...

Ride along the fascinating uphill road built in just 100 days in 1918 to supply the Italian war front. Its tight bends and tunnels take you to the San Boldo Pass. You can then reach the small canyon of Brent de l'Art, an authentic geological gem. From here you can go up to Mount Visentin (from the point where you park the Vespa it's a one hour walk on a ridge with fantastic views) and then down to Santa Croce Lake. Wonderful landscapes and a great dining break at Pranolz! Find out more on our website

THE MONSTER & THE LAKE

The 1963 disaster, Erto & Casso villages, magic Barcis Lake

Riding by a series of beautiful lakes you reach the tragically famous and impressive Vajont Dam, where a mountain collapsed into the reservoir, causing over 1,000 victims. Everything has remained frozen in far-off 1963. You can visit the ghost villages of Erto and Casso and then go up to the magical turquoise Barcis Lake ... a truly fascinating ride. Return via the Monte Cavallo Pass. Find out more on our website

PROSECCO & SALAMI

Prosecco Wine cellars and vineyards

In the area between Conegliano and Valdobbiadene there are more than 120km of narrow winding roads and hundreds of hills and wine cellars, passing through villages and towns where you can smell the taste of the centuries-old art of wine making in these lands. You can enjoy great views and fascinating landscapes, along with medieval ruins, monasteries, centuries-old churches and traces of the civil and religious history of the local people. And don't forget the food and typical produce you can find in the many local shops and restaurants. Find out more on our website.
